

The IPU is and will remain a university. It was awarded its status as a Universität back in 2014 by the Senate of Berlin as confirmed by the German Council of Science and Humanities. At the end of last month, we were successfully reaccredited.

The significant demands on teaching and research by the current Coronavirus conditions have not come to an end. Classes are being conducted completely online. For some students, the difficult pandemic situation has brought with it some emotional struggles. For example, contact restrictions and concerns for loved ones are often not easy to bear, and the missing on-campus activities can create feelings of uncertainty. In light of this, the IPU Fundraisers Association has set up a psychological counseling system free of charge for all IPU students in order to respond to the various current mental and emotional challenges. Professional psychotherapists will engage discretely with students regarding their present concerns. Whoever is interested in making use of this counseling resource can contact the association's chairperson, Christa Marahrens-Schürg.

Psychoanalysis in a Pandemic Posts from IPU during Crisis

The Erich Fromm Study Center has its own YouTube channel! Here you can regularly find new and historical videos and recordings that revolve around the work and accomplishments of the social psychologist and psychoanalyst Erich Fromm. As an opener to the channel, the conversation between Prof. Dr. Hartmut Rosa, Dr. Rainer Funk, and Prof. Dr. Thomas Kühn as well as the subsequent presentation, which took place in December 2019 as the Erich Fromm-Lecture at IPU.

At this point, we would like to point out that there is a new post in the 3sat-media library: Prof. Dr. Christine Kirchhoff was a guest on the programscobel.
